

Ziglar Training Systems

it's about being Better

March 11, 2005

To Whom It May Concern:

As part of the commitment we feel to our staff, Ziglar Training Systems provides a time for a devotional thought every Monday morning before the work week gets under way. On Monday morning, February 21, 2005, we had the privilege of hosting Gail McWilliams as she led our staff and guests in a devotional message. Gail is a truly remarkable woman, with a heart-felt message that moves everyone fortunate enough to hear her. Our staff was tremendously encouraged and very impressed with her presentation and her demeanor. Speaking from her heart, she touched the hearts and souls of her listeners. Her message is clear, profound, and so understandable that, as the Bible says, "a wayfaring man, though he be a fool, would know the way" as she points it out. I was personally encouraged by the commitment and optimism of a woman who could not see but has such incredible vision.

It's my conviction that corporate America would benefit tremendously from Gail McWilliams and her message. Leaders and laborers alike gain considerably from people who deliver hope, vision and enthusiasm with passion and authenticity as she does.

I believe you will be very encouraged and delighted with Gail McWilliams and her presentation if you invite her to appear before your class, your group, your church, your company or your Bible study. She will fit right in with any group. You will discover that many people who do not already know the Lord as Savior will meet Him through her and her message. Gail and her husband Tony work together and can be reached at:

God bless you as you prayerfully consider inviting Gail McWilliams to address your group.

Sincerely,

Zig Ziglar
